

A photograph of a modern, minimalist interior space, likely a loft or a converted industrial building. The room features exposed concrete walls and a wooden floor. In the foreground, a dark wooden table holds a few items, including a red folder and a small object. To the left, a dark chair is partially visible. In the center, a bed with white linens and a dark blanket is positioned in front of a large window with a dark frame. To the right, a long, white, low-profile desk or counter holds a vase with dried flowers, a bottle, and some folded towels. Another window is visible on the far right, showing a view of a city building. The overall atmosphere is clean, bright, and contemporary.

Today private spaces are becoming public through services like Airbnb

The image shows a modern, industrial-style interior. In the foreground, a dark wooden desk holds a few items, including a red folder. To the left, a dark chair is partially visible. In the center, a bed with white and dark bedding is positioned in front of a large window with a dark frame. To the right, a long, light-colored concrete or stone ledge serves as a windowsill, holding folded towels, a vase with dried flowers, and other small objects. The walls are made of raw concrete, and the floor is also concrete. The overall atmosphere is quiet and somewhat somber due to the low lighting.

In 2030 we believe most private space will transition into public space